

Strategies for Reading Nonfiction Books

- Think about what you already know about the topic.
- You don't have to read the WHOLE book to learn something new.
 - Use the Table of Contents to help you find something you want to know more about.
- Look at the pictures to help you find something you want to know more about.
 - Look at the pictures to understand the topic better.
 - Use the diagrams to learn about parts of the topic.
- Use the index to help find answers to questions.
- Find the bold words and use the glossary to see what they mean.

