A diagram of a cell. It features a large central circle representing the nucleus. Surrounding this nucleus is a layer of smaller, rounded rectangular structures, each with a small protrusion on one side, resembling cilia or microvilli. To the left of the cell, there are two horizontal lines, one above the other, and the text 'er' is partially visible below them.

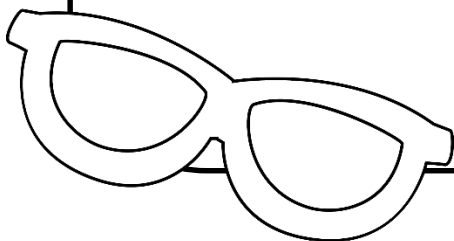

[illegible]

This image shows a full page of handwriting practice paper. It contains ten identical sets of horizontal lines arranged vertically. Each set is composed of three lines: a solid black line at the top, a dashed black line in the middle, and another solid black line at the bottom. These lines provide a guide for letter height and placement, helping learners practice consistent handwriting. The background is white, and there are no other markings or text on the page.

A stylized sun with a circular face and rays. The sun has a simple circular outline for its face, and numerous elongated, slightly curved rays radiate from its perimeter. The entire sun is rendered in black outlines on a white background.

[illegible]

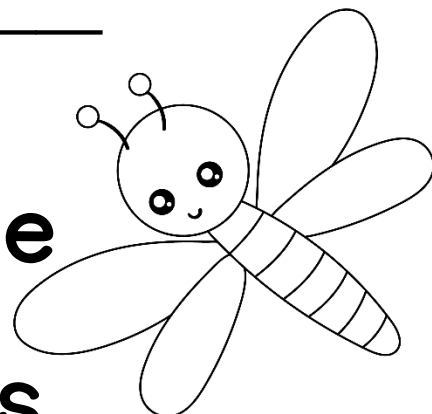

A line drawing of a picnic basket. The basket has a rounded body with a woven pattern of vertical and horizontal lines. Two handles are attached to the top rim, each with a circular fastener. Inside the basket, two apples are visible on the left, and two long, thin items, possibly hot dogs or sandwiches, are on the right.

A series of horizontal lines for handwriting practice. Each row consists of a solid top line, a dashed middle line, and a solid bottom line. There are four such rows stacked vertically.
